Saras
8 Years 4 Months

In the quiet fields of a small village, under the scorching sun, a man works with trembling hands and a heavy heart. His name is Narendra Khare, a humble labour farmer, who never imagined that beyond the daily struggle for bread and butter, he'd be battling time to save his son's life.

Saras is just 8 years 4 months old. His laughter once filled their modest home like sunshine. But hidden behind that laughter was a silent storm—a congenital heart disorder that went undiagnosed at birth. For years, his parents watched him fall ill, tire easily, and breathe heavily, not knowing why.

After countless hospital visits and unanswered questions, that doctors revealed the truth: Saras heart isn't functioning as it should. He needs immediate medical intervention at a specialized facility—something his parents cannot afford.

That's why they have approached Diya India Foundation in the hope of receiving financial support for their son's treatment. Your support can give Saras a fighting chance. A small contribution from your side can help us provide him with the life-saving treatment he needs. Every second counts, and every rupee can bring hope.

Please, open your heart for little Saras.
Let's not let poverty decide his fate.
Because every child deserves a healthy heartbeat.
