My Daughter's Heart will give up at any moment.
Please Help us to Save our Daughter.

Vandana (4 Years)

Over the past six months, there hasn't been a day when my 4-year-old daughter, Vandana, struggled to breathe. Despite her endless suffering, the little one has been bravely fighting the battle for life. However, now her heart is slowly running out of time.

My daughter's heart will give up at any moment if she doesn't get urgent surgery. We won't be able to live if we lose her. Me and my husband are living in constant fear of losing our child.

The little one has been through hell. One day she got a severe fever, and froth started coming from her mouth. We rushed her to the hospital.

I still remember that moment when she was lying on the hospital bed, and she was shivering and screaming loudly while the doctor examined her. I was frightened. After hours, the doctor told us that they are suspecting a heart problem. It's better to take her to Delhi for further test.

We came to Delhi and went to Sir Ganga Ram Hospital. After some tests, Vandana got diagnosed with congenital heart disease -a large ventricular septal defect, which needs urgent surgery costing 3,00,000/-. My husband burst into tears as this amount is very huge for us.

Because of her disease, Vandana is constantly in discomfort. Unlike other kids of her age, she can't even play, as it makes her condition worse. She barely sleeps. We are in a complete dilemma and don't know what to do. All we know is that her heart will fail if we don't arrange funds for her treatment urgently.

I'm a housewife, and my husband is a dishwasher at a restaurant earning Rs.7,000/- only. We barely manage to make our ends meet. It is not possible for us to arrange money for our daughter's surgery.

We request Diya India Foundation and its generous supporter to please help us save our daughter.

We will be in forever debt of your kindness.
